What approach would you take? Who would you work with? Why this particular issue?	I would start by talking to and polling high school students. I would collaborate with my community and governmental leaders I believe that this problem is not discussed as much as

	others because many people dont see it as a big issue. Too many children use drugs to feel better and to calm themselves although parents and others are aware of these issues, they often choose to ignore them, which leads to more serious issues like addiction and overdosing This problem is more serious because it is only becoming worse with time. As a high school student, I witness this problem and have seen firsthand how much it may affect one"s drive to succeed
