Please provide a brief summary of your expertise and/or perspectives.	I have worked with business for my entire year career. Currently the CMO and COO of George Plumbing, a local plumbing company serving San Antonio since 1947. I've worked with various sizes of small businesses and have been involved in many specific organizational projects to provide resources and networking for small business owners and operators.
Please provide a description of your professional, educational and community/volunteer experience.	I graduated from New York University with a BFA in Drama and in English and American Literature. After college, I immediately started my marketing career and worked my way from Marketing Intern, Manager then Director then VP and finally I started Texas Women's Trades, an organization to bring more women, people of color and people in the skilled trades. Additionally, I have volunteered to help local skilled trades organizations to recruit and retain people in skilled labor work.
Please share your interest and commitment to racial and economic justice and other social equity issues.	As a young female Hispanic executive, I have experienced my fair share of racial and social injustice. Especially in a traditionally male-dominated industry. I want to breathe racial and economic and social justice. It is pivotal to address these issues, recruit more women, people of color and people into the skilled trades. We will not
