Describe your Educational history.	I attended School of Science and Technology - Discovery in elementary and middle school. Going into high school, I transferred to Louis D. Brandeis High School.
Describe your Professional History & Certification designations (Current and historical).	I'm a member of the Youth Advocacy Council, and on this council, I work as a comprehensive sexual education and reproductive health civics leader. Through this group, I have also been given opportunities such as meeting with TX legislators at the Texas Capitol to advocate for a bill of my choosing (I chose HB320), to working in conjunction with San Antonio Metro Health, San Antonio Youth Commission, and Project Worth members to plan the first Youth Mental Health Summit in San Antonio. I founded a school club, Helping the Homeless, and I've been the President/Founder since November of 2022. An issue I'm passionate about is homelessness. As a society, I believe we've turned a blind eye to the people that need our help the most. Homeless citizens are still people, same as us, and yet there's a wealth of stigma surrounding the people whose shoes we could be in one day. Something I learned while meeting with TX legislator Diego Bernal's staff was that 50 percent of Americans live one paycheck away from homelessness. I want to raise awareness on the plight of the homeless, aid by volunteering at homeless shelters, and to show people why we should sympathize with the homeless community instead of turning our noses up at them. My first step towards doing this was by founding a club where I could give my members the real world experience of volunteering face-to-face, because showing makes worlds more of a difference than preaching. I'm a member of the Teen Wage Equity Cohort Group. I met Misty Harty, Director of Racial Justice and Gender Equity of YWCA, at the Girls Empowerment Summit where I got to speak as a panelist and do a presentation on who SAYC is and what we do, with Jemm Morrison, SAYC's board liaison. After meeting me after my panel and presentation, Ms.Harty invited me to be on this cohort on 03/19/2023.

I'm currently a member of Brandeis EcoBroncos, a club that focuses on keeping our community green and sustainable by cleaning the campus every week, and Brandeis Barkadas, a club that celebrates Filipino culture, as well as educates about it. I worked as a lifeguard at Six Flags Fiesta Texas from April 2022 - September 2022, where I obtained several certificates: Health Care Provider BLS (CPR and AED), Standard First Aid, Supplemental Oxygen Support (HCP BLS), and Preventing Bloodborne and Airborne Pathogens. I was certified on 05/15/2022. Furthermore, from October 2021 - June 2022, I was elected Class President and took on responsibilities such as raising funds for prom, voicing concerns of the class of 2025, rallying support for school events, and conferring and working with fellow classmates.

Describe your Volunteer Experience & Community Service

As a member of SAYC, since November of 2022, I have attended monthly meetings to discuss community grants, plan and attend district-wide events, and approve funding, amongst other affairs. So far, I've helped create, revise, and launch this year's Teen Mental Health Survey, and I was given the opportunity to participate in the first in-person Girl's Empowerment Summit. At the summit, I spoke as a panelist and did a presentation on SAYC alongside my board liaison, Jemm Morrison. I've also been attending POD meetings at Rise Recovery to plan the first ever Youth Mental Health Summit in San Antonio. Outside of SAYC, I volunteer on Thursdays afterschool with EcoBroncos to pick up trash around our school campus. For my club, Helping the Homeless, I schedule volunteer events at Haven for Hope once a month, where I volunteer with my club members at the community kitchen. From November 2021 - June 2022, I volunteered with the Red Cross Club. I addressed, oversaw, and organized events to raise funds for the Red Cross.

Please provide a brief narrative outlining your reasons for seeking appointment to this board or commission:

I would like to seek a reappointment for SAYC because, for the first time, I feel like I'm making a real difference in the world. I feel like I'm leaving my mark on the world, and I fully intend on keeping this momentum going. This feeling didn't fully hit me until I spoke at the Girls Empowerment Summit in March, an opportunity presented to me by Jemm Morrison, the SAYC board liaison, just a month ago. After presenting on SAYC with Jemm and speaking as a panelist, I participated in the activities with all the other girls. As I gathered my things to take to one of the breakout rooms, I felt a tap on my shoulder. I turned around and saw a young girl holding a small leather book in her hands, and she smiled at me and said "Hey Thy, I wrote this poem about what I learned from you today, I'd love for you to read it." Until this moment, I didn't fully comprehend that I was seen as a role model and that my words resonated with others. On this day, I wasn't just there to make other girls feel as though their voices mattered, I ended up feeling like my voice truly mattered too. Coming from Vietnam as the daughter of immigrants, someone who's an immigrant herself, this experience meant the world to me. I grew up in a lower-class household, and I've worked so hard to be the person I am today. I remember being so shy that I would try to cover my face when people spoke to me, avoiding eye contact. I would be scared to order my own food at restaurants. Nonetheless, I knew I wasn't happy the way I was. Something had to give, so I changed my mindset. I put myself out there, constantly trying new things, especially things I wasn't masterful at, where I recognized that I might fail. I knew if I wasn't failing and making mistakes, I wasn't growing and learning. Looking back today, I couldn't be more proud of myself. I remember running for Class President my freshman year at Brandeis High School, where I'd only known just met everyone, and yet I won. I've spoken in front of crowds of people, I've been interviewed on KSAT12 at the Girls Empowerment Summit, and I've met with TX legislators, even being offered a summer internship with one. To see the fruit of my labor come to life, I want to encourage others to do the same. I want to motivate the people around me to be the best version of themselves, and I want to help give everyone the voice and the opportunities I have today. Although I haven't been a member of SAYC for long, I believe I've made a difference in my community on a city-wide level, and I'd like to keep doing so by uplifting those around me as district 7's SAYC representative.
