MLK Park Installation

SUMMARY:

Staff is presenting the installation completion of public art at MLK Park.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION:

In December 2021, the Department of Arts & Culture installed Spheres of Reflection by local artist Kaldric Dow at Martin Luther King Park. Spheres of Reflection is a sculpture paying homage to the representation of African American culture, depicting an ambiguous face – making the character universal and interpretive at the same time. The face is topped by a cylindrical tower of dark, reflective spheres symbolic of hair. The representation of natural hair seen in the piece is significant because of the connection between hair and cultural identity. The bottom layers of spheres feature several key words commonly used by Reverend Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in his speeches and writings. The words are dream, sincerity, bold, desire, brave, unity, gratitude, accountability, devotion and change. The inclusion of such terms invites the viewer to think about King's teachings.
